

Out of breath, Tumpy and Chime the turtles were running as fast as they could (2mph) to the gilly gally shop car park, to their amazement it was bigger than they ever imagined there was a massive sign saying "welcome to gilly gally" they were gobsmacked, how could they ever find silver the turtle in the hummingus shop of terror?

As they stared at the colossus building there was a door that spun round first they thought it was a tacho, eating the humans but then they saw it was a rotating door they tried to get in but there was a fish bowl with a gold fish inside it was a guard. They must get into the shop and the guard keeps on saying only humans allowed they had absolute no idea how to get in but then they saw a woman with a massive bag they must silently and sneakily dive into her bag.

With one gigantic attempt they both sprung them selves into the bag. It was hummingus definitely bigger on the inside than the out. Stuffed with tissues and metal things (lipstick). Immediately they jumped out of the bag and into the shop. Devastated because how massive it was they looked round the shop there was a lot of keeping noises (bar code scanners) and massive crispy deadly sharp weapons of devastation. gigantic bottles with red slugs inside (ketchup).

Silver was sprinting as fast as he could (2mph) towards the balcony, it was he had a plan. It was a perfect chance. unguarded bread. He jumped as high as the shelf he almost fell off but he did get up. He was ready to set up his evil job before the evil fonder humans find him. Head spinning antiosly. running too fast. Bread fell. However something happened...

Tumpy and Chime were getting antios. because they were looking for silver for four hours. At last they ^{found} ^{they were} ~~found~~ ~~they were~~ screaming for. Second they walked rapidly down the stairs (faster than last time?). To their devastation they spyed that something had gone wrong silver was in mid air really high up from the highest shelf. He was falling like a comet coming down to Earth with stars of bread next to him. They both needed to run. They had to catch silver surely he will be fine they could silver shocken up by fear and falling. So they jumped down onto the floor and ran out of the shop.

the two turtles sprinted out of the shop with silver on their backs and into the fresh air. As luck would have it they escaped before any humans saw them. As they sprinted back to their homes, Tumpy was blinded with rage at his cousin Silver for his stupidity. They thought they were emerging but they weren't. The regretful Silver apologized for them almost dying. Tumpy was happy that they were all well but nervous that he would do something like this again.